THAT TROUBLESOME BAY-WINDOW,

Argument Begnn in the Case Against Mrs. Cole. The argument of the case of the United States against Mrs. Annie Cole began yesterday afternoon before Justice Merrick. The Government, represented by Mr. Randolph Coyle, claims a bay-window which Mrs. Cole is having built over the reservation at Massachusetts avenue and M street northwest is an encroachment on the rights of the United States, Jackson, in whom the ownership of the streets It is c General Birney appears for Mrs. Cole A. G. Riddle was present to maintain the position of the District in having issued reparate dwelling, or that it stood in the light of a public nuisance, on the contrary, it was an architectural trary, it was an architectural ornament to the city.

Mr. Coyle took a distinct and well-de-ground on which the bay-window is built should properly be called a parking and not a reservation. When the paying of these streets was provided for by the Board of Public Works it was decided to narrow this roatway, and for this purpose the sidewalks on each side of the street were moved toward the centre of the street.

The space left vacant next to the building line constitutes the parking upon which the disputed structure is in course of erection. The Government claims that this is a portion of the original street of which the fitte is in the Government's possession, and that the United States may, at any time, if it should so choose, widen the roadway and occupy the parking with sidewalks.

Mrs. Cole naturally feels indigeant over the action that has been taken and considers it a flagrant invasion of her rights. She states that the steps taken by the Government was the result of an agitation of the matter by her neighbors, who desire sake of the advantage to their own prop-

Year-People and Property Saved.

"Damon and Pythias." A handsome delega-tion of Knights of Pythias swelled the audionce, and brought a beautiful floral offer-ing for the distinguished tragedian. His remil-tion of the character Damon has improved by a certain softening and rounding of the boider points in tragic character. Mr. Warde's able delineation of his part was materially strong support. eral Superintendent of the Life-Saving Service shows the following statistics:

The number of disasters to documented vessels within the scope of station operations during the year was 411. There were on board these vessels 3,653 persons, of whom only twelve were lost. The number of slipwrecked persons who received succor at the stations was 743, to whom 1,808 days relief in the aggregate was afforded. The estimated value of the vessels involved in the disasters was $5,924,150, and that of their cargoes $3,631,136, making the total value of property imperited $9,555,255. Of this amount $7,776,405 was saved, and $1,778,880 lost. The number of vessels totally lost was seventy-one.

The extent of the assistance rendered in saving vessels and cargoes was greater than ever before, 462 vessels having been worked off when straided, repaired when damaged, piloted out of dangerous places and similarly between the straided of when damaged, piloted out of dangerous places and similarly between the straided of Service shows the following statistics:

off when straided, repaired when damaged, piloted out of damgerous places and similarly assisted by the station crews. There were, besides, 220 instances where vessels running into damper of stranding were warned off by the signals of the natrol, most of them thus being saved from partial or total loss.

The expense of maintaining the service during the year was $928,213.

The superintendent recommends the passage of the bill granting pensions to widows and children of the officers and men of the service.

The Country's Wealth.

The United States Geological Survey gives some mining statistics that show something of the wonderful wealth of this country, judged by the immense mineral output for the past year. The total value of all minerals mined in 1887 was $538,000,000. This is $70,000,000 more than the output for 1886, and over $100,000 greater than for 1885. The year's yield is not only the greatest ever produced in this country, but is at least $100,000,000 greater than the output of any other country, and, leaving out England, is greater than that of all Europe.

to join the National Guard and be recognized as part of the First Brigade, under General Fitzgerald. They were willing to sacrifice their gorgeous uniforms if the State demanded it. The other faction wanted more gold lace and lots of officers, and did not care about joining the National Guard. It is this latter faction which has formed the City Troop of New York. They propose to have uniforms which will be very expensive and very handsome. Most of the members of the new organization are rich men, and it is probable that the new troop will succeed. The new City Troop will have a fine club house.

A Yankee Woman's Victory. Miss Buell, a Circinnati artist, spent the summer at Egmont, on the North Sea. She found a potato patch well situated for obtaining sunset effects, and pitched her easel there. The owner objected, but she paid no attention to him. Then he complained to the burgo-master, and he refused to interfere. The farmer, as a last resort, petitioned the king, and the result was a letter of reproof to the farmer, in which he declared that Miss Buell might trespass on all the potato patches in Holland.

Falcoury Revived in England The ancient sport of falconry is about to be Ordnance, in his annual report to the Secre- | revived in England. Something Needed to Keep Postage Stamps from Sticking Together.
"What will keep stamps from sticking together? Nothing, absolutely nothing." The stamp clerk at the Postoffice was talking to one of the large class of people whose desks are in their pockets, people who often have occasion to use postage stamps when they are from their offices or homes. He was a young man and had just bought five 2-cent stamps and strong thened and assisted by an unusually strong support.

Mr. L. J. Henderson as Pythias won upon the audience at the start, he held his place in their good graces all the way through. and the audience at Albaugh's was an evidence of it. The play was Gilmore's "Twelve Temptations," a sort of of a mescorological spectacular drama with ice kings and sun queens and weather prophets and rain gods, and everything except stars in it. It is constructed with the usual elements of plot, bullet, scenery and colored lights, and several of the settings are superly noticeably the last one which is, without doubt, as glittering a stage setting as has ever been seen in this city. Some of the costumes were very fine and some of them quite the contrary. The ballet of All Nations was unique and inferesting. Miss desse West won a recall by her singing and danching. The dramatic portion of the presentation lacked the qualities which command compliments. There was neither wit in the dialogue or novelty in the cause of which it was the effect. Again to-night. "How can you get around the difficulty?' "Easily enough. Buy stamped envel-opes; you get four for nine cents—the envelopes costing you less than a half-a-cent a piece—and you have your stamps already stuck on and besides you never have the trouble of borrowing an envelope when you want to write a letter when you are away from home, if you have a stamped envelope in your pocket.

American Magazine. With November's chill days, furnace fires are aglow, and the great stove in the cellar has are agiow, and the great stove in the celtar has begun its season's work. After watching sick beds in rooms heated by steam, by open fires, by stoves and by furnace heat, I am decidedly in favor of the last, provided sufficient moisture be added to the heated air before it comes into living rooms. Steam heat is too dry, open fires cannot keep up an even temperature nor warm a room in Northern mid-winter, and stoves burn oxygen from air too rapidly without providing a fresh supply.

DOLLARS AND QUESTIONS

Why, this is something unusual in the clothing business? . Entirely so. No dodge about it. No cheap gift thunder about it. No old stock splutter about it. Our purpose isn't to be gained in that way. This is a genuine out and out honest sale, caused by an unforseen accident. Hardship to us or not, the stock must be sold. All goods will be sold at exactly one-half the marked prices. We intend to sell now and quick, and lose whatever profit it costs. Bring back what doesn't please for exchange or a return of money.
